ICLEIUSA.org presentation in City Hall Chambers

Nebulous, presenter seemed not highly familiar with material, but he did have a cold.

Like a congressional presentation, high on glitz, not a lot of information.

$1200/year to participate.

Showing screens from one of the tools available, emissions inventory. We would be responsible for collecting a lot of information, entering it into the software, then meaningful reports would be generated. We still have the issue of who would collect the information and who would do data input. The primary benefit would be access to software which would assemble data we have interest in and produce useable reports. For those of us who have done this type of work, it would represent a great time savings. The secondary benefit would be the ability to claim to be part of this larger active group.

Respectfully submitted,

Steve Woodruff
